MANAGEMENT QUALITY POLICY

As a supplier of building envelope systems to the UK market, the Euroclad Group of companies, which includes Euroclad Ltd, Category Cladding Ltd and Poultry House Products Ltd, occupies a unique position in the supply chain. Many of its competitors are a subsidiary of steel producing mills and as such are viewed as a downstream activity promoting only the products of the steel mill owner. The Euroclad Group, comprised of private companies, sits independently in the supply chain and can offer impartial and best advice to the building specifier in the choice of the construction materials used in the building envelope.

This position has allowed the businesses to forge key partnerships with installers and main contractors alike who value the wide range of options Euroclad Group are able to make available to them due to the freedom of procurement afforded by their independence.

The collective benefits of its product range, technical support and reliability of supply performance, have resulted in a positive reputation being established at architect and designer-level within the market, ensuring the businesses are best-placed to offer appropriate solutions at the early developmental stages of key projects.

There is complete recognition throughout the businesses that appropriate quality and supply performance is the only way to maintain the positive reputation built to date. Regular Management Reviews ensure focus is maintained on all aspects of the sales order process, manufacturing, quality and supply, whilst also recognising the importance of being cost-effective and competitive in the market.

Company-wide awareness of the importance of Quality is critical in providing the market with functional, cost-effective, attractive products, supplied on time. The Quality Manual sets out the Management System being followed in order to maintain and enhance the performance and reputation built to date.
