RESPONSIBLE SOURCING POLICY

Euroclad Ltd is a supplier of building envelope systems to the UK construction market, offering impartial and best advice to building specifiers in respect to choice of construction materials used in the building envelope.

Euroclad Ltd's position in the market has been under-pinned by key partnerships with installers and main contractors alike, who value the wide range of options made available to them. A key element of the overall product offering is Elite Systems, a range of single-source solutions comprising integrated constructions that utilise specified materials and components.

Euroclad Ltd recognise the importance of monitoring and managing sustainability issues in the UK construction industry and appreciate that our procurement decisions can have impact beyond our own processes. These activities are therefore seen as critical to our on-going success as a supplier and procurer of materials and components.

In practice, the framework of BES 6001 is applied to ensure that component materials used in Elite Systems have been sourced responsibly, and that the organisational management, supply chain management and environmental and social aspects are monitored and managed in accordance with requirements.

As such, we support the procurement of energy efficient products via the adoption of suitable standards of ethical behaviour and by documenting appropriate policies and practices on aspects such as legal compliance, energy use, waste prevention, lifecycle assessment and transport impacts.

This policy is closely related to other commitments made by the business, which are duly covered in our Quality, Environmental and Health & Safety management systems.
